Highland Games offer a unique team building opportunity. “The Games” provide active and highly entertaining amusement with colleagues.

Physical tasks are alternated with non-physical ones, making the Games suitable for everyone; there's no need for ‘superman or superwoman’ training beforehand.

“Clans” compete with each other on the basis of a rotation system. All that's required is a healthy dose of rivalry.

Keeping the theme of the team event secret makes it even more thrilling. Moodmaker doesn't give participants any hints either.

The Games truly take off following an amusing introduction. Team leaders are taken to one side and kitted out with kilts, jackets & hats.

Once the Clan leaders have donned their outfits they are greeted with great enthusiasm by the other team members (with loud applause and the necessary deference). A piiper straight away creates the right ambiance.

Team division is made easy using a tot of whisky in glasses labelled with a number at the bottom. This will ensure that your team is divided randomly, but in an efficient and entertaining manner.

Moodmaker has been staging a “corporate” edition of the Highland Games since 2005, making the games accessible to everyone.

Traditional disciplines are alternated with fun activities and tasks focused on mutual communication.

The Highland Games are supervised to ensure the personal safety of participants.

CREATIVE PEOPLE
BUILD STRONG BUSINESSES !

Companies that choose the Highland Games are chiefly looking for an original outdoor activity that is all about fun, entertainment and camaraderie.

This team building activity is a friendly battle between clans which promotes team spirit. The Highland Games are also feasible for everyone!
